Dear (recipient name),

After reading the vacancy 'Catering assistant at our restaurant in Madrid' on Studentjob.nl, I knew I had to apply. I visited Spain last summer and told myself that if I ever have the chance to go back, I will. I have worked in a variety of restaurants in the Netherlands and I am ready to explore what it's like to work in catering in another country.

Throughout my studies I had many part time jobs at restaurants in the Netherlands. During my job at Humphrey's restaurant in Rotterdam I learned about the importance of customer satisfaction and the joy it gives me when they are pleased with my service. I have always been interested in Hospitality and working with others so it was only natural that I went on to study International Hotel & Hospitality Management at the EuroCollege in Rotterdam. We were taught all the necessary skills to smoothly operate and run a restaurant and give customers the best experience.

I grew up in the Netherlands but I have always wanted to travel and see the world. Therefore I think that working in an international environment will suit me very well and will give me the opportunity to keep developing my Spanish speaking skills (currently B2). I am the kind of person who can easily communicate with others, is flexible when it comes to working hours and always ready for an adventure.

Thank you for your time and I am looking forward to your response. Attached is a copy of my cv for additional information.

Yours faithfully,

Rafael van der Cammen
